

Outline the homosexuals' struggle for equal rights and give a specific example from Alan Turing's own life. Then discuss the extent to which homosexuals and heterosexuals are equal in today's UK.

Give your essay an appropriate headline.

Your language focus is the use of the appropriate vocabulary regarding your topic.

Word count: 700-900 words.

Source material:

- Chris Bryant: I've seen British attitudes to gay people change. But the battle is not yet won
(pp. 16-18 in the compendium)

- A short history of LGBT rights in the UK

<https://www.bl.uk/lgbtq-histories/articles/a-short-history-of-lgbt-rights-in-the-uk>

- History of LGBT rights in the UK: A long road to equality

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kDV4S5K_kMU

- Introduction to Alan Turing: Creator of modern computing

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/teach/alan-turing-creator-of-modern-computing/zhwp7nb>

Your essay must include references to at least 2 texts from the source material.

All sources must be documented.

Vedrørende henvisninger til tekst, video- og lydclip, se nedenstående:

Sådan henviser du til tekst, video- og lydclip

Hvis du citerer, skal du angive kilde.

Alt anvendt materiale skal være engelsksproget og angives med kildehenvisninger.

Du kan henvise til dele af video- og lydclip, f.eks. ved at angive afspillerens minut- og sekundtal for henholdsvis starten og slutningen af klippet.

Generel skabelon for henvisninger til tekster

Alle henvisninger angives i fodnoter

Henvisning til kilderne (sources) i opgavematerialet

"In N.R.A. Fight, Companies Find There Is No Neutral Ground" (I.15) eller (II.15-17)

Henvisning til videoer i kilderne (sources) i opgavematerialet

"Why Americans Love Guns" (01:23-02:12)

Ved evt. brug af materiale fra undervisningen skal kilden angives.